

Who is Ashlinn Morrigan?

What a funny thing to ask! Anyone who parties in Atlanta has probably at least heard the whispers of Ashlinn Morrigan's name, if not met her a few times. The old Toreador has had her fingers in all the biggest club scenes since the Prohibition days; some say she helped build it up to begin with. She also has her fingers pretty deep in the city's underbelly, directing drug deals and manipulating organized crime, seemingly just to keep her party going... But these nights she can usually be found on the dance floor, at the bar, in a seedy hotel room with her latest night-long fling, or in an alley teaching some poor soul a lesson about keeping promises and paying back debts.

Though you wouldn't think so, looking at her pedigree; while she might be a newly minted Elder herself, rumors abound that her Sire is supposedly a hotshot Archon in a more distant part of the world, with Ashlinn acting as eyes, ears, and occasionally hands here in Georgia. Whether that's exactly true or not, her standing with the Camarilla is hard for anyone to deny.

Other Facts and Rumours

- Ashlinn blends in well with the human population, her vampiric nature hidden behind a surprisingly lively mask. That might be related to her indulgence in the human vices she deals in, as well; or it might not...
- Some of the Volgirre whisper that “she” used to look quite different back in the day, something they supposedly helped with... Hard to confirm for sure, but it's on record that Ashlinn's boon debt was just a little bit of the total expended for the Volgirre to come back from the Sabbat.
- Ashlinn takes a year-long vacation to France about once a decade or so, supposedly out of sentiment. Her French is still perfect, though her English sounds distinctly American after a few hundred years living here.
- Besides the club scene, there's a small blacksmith's workshop that takes commissions now and then that Ashlinn works personally. Though one has to wonder how much money that could actually pull in, however beautiful her metalwork might look...